for young people in search of a genuinely human way of knowing

22 April 2025

Dear Young People,

Behind a good Waldorf School, there is something magical. It is realized in every school more or less imperfectly. It is called Anthroposophy, and consists in the initiation into the true being of man.

Anthroposophy is the only education that leads to revolutionary new approaches in all fields of life: the natural sciences, mathematics, history, medicine, agriculture, art, education, religion, sociology, the economy, finance, and so on. These new approaches have scarcely begun to unfold, flowing as they do out of the future into our present. Whenever they have been understood and taken up, even partially, they have proven wholesome and fruitful.

Would you like to get to know Anthroposophy together with other young people? On September 14th, a year-long full-time introduction for young adults will begin in Aesch, near the Goetheanum in Switzerland. Before that, there will opportunities to meet by Zoom and elsewhere. Please get in touch, and bring your friends!

With warm greetings,
Daniel Hafner
