Our contribution to the SDG's

Our workplace goes beyond the usual purpose. It is a place to get together, to become creative and develop ideas, to grow with challenges and become stronger as a team. All this happens simultaneously to the activities, that our team likes to do the most, since they have turned their passion into their profession.

We want to increase the share of sustainable projects. In order to achieve this, we want to cooperate with cities and create a frame of possibilities for sustainable construction. Because of that, resilience and life quality within the cities are improved by building green infrastructure, supporting social living projects and bring sustainable lifestyles closer to the people.

The transformation requires companies, that work together, help each other and use resources efficiently to enable sustainable construction. We want to achieve this by cooperating with companies, which also put their focus on sustainable business practices. Moreover, through the creation of competence centers in our projects, such as U46 co:nnect, we make exchange of topics such as circular economy, transformation and changing of mindset, possible. At the same time, this can be the necessity for businesses and individuals, who are at the beginning of such a restructuring.
