

My Decade

on a summer evening in the twentieth century between the fall of first the wall and later the towers we played a game of football in the park with the boys from our neighbourhood

now this was a defining moment in history because my dad joined in like he would always do however, this particular game would later turn out to be the last time he did
