

The Messenger

Through the wild and wintry forests, over winding country roads and along the trails of hoofprints, runs a young auburn-eyed man holding in his soft, cupped hands a wounded robin.

The wind breathing madly on his heels, he flies, like a messenger of death or life.

©Thomas van der Zwan, 2010